

Measurement, Reporting, and Verification Programme

About

Understanding the impact your business has on the planet is crucial for identifying solutions to reduce emissions. We have developed our Measurement, Reporting, and Verification Programme to assist you in collecting and analysing data, enabling your company to create a Greenhouse Gas (GHG) Report using the GHG Protocol, a globally recognised carbon accounting framework that highlights the primary sources of emissions. This includes GHG emissions within Scopes 1, 2, and 3.

A comprehensive GHG inventory will be essential in attracting investments for decarbonisation, whether through public-private partnerships, sustainable finances, or direct investors. Disclosing your GHG emissions and actively working to decrease them will be pivotal in communicating your sustainability agenda with markets, governments, society, and other stakeholders.

Steps

Gather data from different business units, and facilities using the template provided by GFA to ensure a standardised approach to data collection.

GFA reviews and processes the activity data to identify greenhouse gas emissions associated with various activities and operations within the company.

GFA compiles a complete GHG report encompassing Scope 1, Scope 2, and selected Scope 3 emission sources, including quantitative data and relevant metrics such as emissions data, trends, comparisons, and insights.

GFA's Approach

Ensuring Accuracy: We enable companies to create a GHG inventory that accurately reflects their emissions, utilising standardised methods and principles through our comprehensive guided process.

Strategic Insights: We offer valuable information that empowers businesses to develop effective strategies for GHG emission management and reduction.

Cost Efficiency: Our services streamline the process and minimise the expenses associated with compiling a GHG inventory.
